Graduation & Retention Rates

Why these are important to consider for Find the Fit

Graduation Rates

Many important things should be considered when applying to colleges and universities, and graduation rates is among the key indicators of a school's overall quality and success. Looking at the percentage of students who receive a diploma after four to six years at a given school can paint quite the picture of its quality.

Graduation Rates

If the graduation rate number is low this indicates that many students either transferred to other schools or simply dropped out without finishing their degree at all.

Both of these are a cause for concern.

Students normally transfer or leave schools if they are significantly dissatisfied with its academic programs, social life, or administrative quality. These three factors are the ones students must primarily concern themselves with when looking at any college or university.

Let's Take a Look at Some Local Graduation Rates

Carson Newman Univ

4 years- 48%

6 years- 56%

East TN State University

4 years- 29%

6 years- 49%

Lincoln Memorial Univ

4 years- 36%

6 years- 44%

TN State University

4 years- 12%

6 years- 31%

TN Tech University

4 years- 31%

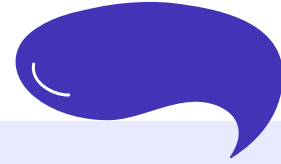

6 years- 54%

Univ of TN - Knoxville

4 years- 52%

6 years- 72%

Why do you think University of Tennessee has a higher rate than the others?

What does a low graduation rate mean for you?

This just means that you may want to check and make sure that the school has certain resources such as tutoring centers, student support centers, etc. When the numbers are super super low this can mean that the college doesn't provide any extra support for students.

Retention Rates

Retention rate is also important to look at. This rate differs slightly from graduation rate. Retention focuses on the number of first-year students who returned to school on at least a part-time basis for a second year.

If this number is high, it indicates that freshmen students were pleased with their first year's experiences and they likely wish to finish their degree at that school.

A low retention rate indicates the opposite. As a result, many transferred to other institutions where they felt they would be happier or receive a better value for the price of tuition.

Community Colleges

Roane State

Grad Rate- 33%

Transfer Rate- 7.5%

Walters State

Grad Rate- 30%

Transfer Rate- 12%

Just be aware of these numbers. In the past we have found that some students really struggle while at a community college. There are tutoring & support centers available but it is up to you to seek out the help that you need.

WHY

Is this important for Find the Fit?

Retention & Graduation Rates are important to acknowledge when picking your colleges. If you need to be in a school that offers tutoring, extra support, and campus involvement this is a factor that you need to consider.

Breakdown of College Search Sheet

My College Search Sheet

The My College Search Sheet allows you to look at various colleges side by side as well as look at some of the factors personal to you.

You pick four schools that you are interested in and use this sheet to compare them.

Normally we would fill out the top part of this form and fill in the schools during this class. Due to us being virtual, your Ed. Specialist will be calling you in to fill this out with you. Once the top part is filled out your Ed. Specialist will fill out the rest of the form and then give you a copy of the results. Hang on to these because we will be looking at them next month.

Let's look at a breakdown.

ACT Composite Range Column

Your Ed. Specialist will fill this column out.

This will be the ACT score that most students who are accepted into this school has.

Why is this important?

This helps you determine if a school is your safety, stretch or match school. How we determine this is based off of your GPA and ACT scores. If your score matches with the score listed in this column, we can list it as a match. If your score is below the range, it will be considered a stretch school. If your score is higher than the range, it will be your safety school.

Match Scavenger Hunt!

Match Schools

These schools have a fairly reasonable price, have acceptance standards that are similar to what your own GPA and ACT score is.

This school also needs to suit you personally, which means that they have a lot of your institutional and personal preferences.

- Academic Match- the most important thing is whether the school offers what you intend to study. Also look at those graduation and retention rates. Graduation rates lets you know what percentage of students graduate on time (important because not graduating on time means more money spent). Retention rates let you know what percentage of students return after their freshman year. The higher retention rate the better the school does at meeting the needs of freshmen.
- Institutional Offerings- Does the school have academic resources such as tutoring, libraries, up-to-date science labs, computer labs, etc.? Does it have a low student-to-teacher ratio? Does it have student support centers?
- Personal Preferences- These are unique to the things you are looking for in a college and will be comfortable with. This includes campus size, types of recreation on campus and in the surrounding area, distance from home, clubs/organizations, athletics, student center, food, etc.
- Affordability- The cost of college is a tricky thing to figure out sometimes as there are direct costs (tution, fees, room/board) and indirect costs (books, transportation, personal expenses). For now, remember that some expensive schools are not as expensive once financial aid, state aid, institution scholarships and outside scholarships are taken into account.
